

Vancouver

Wood wired to overachieve.

Beneath the warm and inviting aesthetics of handcrafted wood lies an even more enticing proposal - that taps easily into all the power and data your people and their tools demand. Vancouver proves to be as adaptable as it is powerful, seamlessly integrating with environments ranging from conservative to contemporary, free standing to panel-hung.

Vancouver

Flexibility always an option

A casegoods office system that works equally well in a panel-hung environment, Vancouver adds welcome utility. These freestanding and panel hung components work with both Haworth PLACES and PREMISE® panel systems, integrating the best of three worlds to create one where flexibility is always an option.

The modular design means Vancouver easily adapts to challenging floor plans and provides the freedom to add, move, or reconfigure, all while fitting together seamlessly.

Vancouver was designed from the beginning to easily accommodate Power Base™ and DataThing® for easy, instant access to power and data.

The mobile return scoots around the workspace to provide additional project drawers and hanging file storage.
